

Advocates for Justice, a New York based public interest law firm, has filed a class action lawsuit on behalf of East Ramapo School District parents and students seeking monetary damages from some school board members, district officials and contractors. They allege rampant abuses of office, including:

- A pattern of fraud in the sale of school property
- Willful noncompliance with special education rules
- Unlawfully using state money to purchase religious textbooks
- Dangerously compromising the security of students
- Failure to provide oversight and guidelines for purchases
- Deliberate school segregation
- Unconstitutional gifts of public funds to private schools

As a result, children have been deprived of their right to a sound basic education in violation of the New York State Constitution. They have been denied federally guaranteed equal protection. School board members have breached their fiduciary duty, leading to the loss of programs vital to educational success and damaging the quality of education of the children in the district.

We have lost full day kindergarten, guidance counselors, social workers, our award winning band director and hundreds of teachers. Our classrooms are overcrowded and our children are suffering! IT IS TIME FOR ACTION!

Find out if YOU can join in this action and be part of the solution!

Call 845-554-5892 or email storre@advocatesny.com today!!!

Say "I want to join the East Ramapo Class Action Suit"!!!

For more information:

Advocates for Justice: www.advocatesforjustice.net - Stephanie Torre (212) 285-1400

Power of Ten: www.poweroften.us - Steven White (845) 554-5892